

Are you ready for winter?

Once the bathing season is over, the outdoor aquatic facilities are immersed in their winter preparation. The use of blankets or wintering nets is essential to maintain the water during the cold months. These nets cover the surface of the glass and prevent the accumulation of leaves and dirt. The pool will be completely protected from inclement weather and falling objects, in order to keep the pool water in optimum condition, reducing maintenance costs and commissioning for the next season.

The use of wintering nets together with the use of a specific chemical product, such as PISCINIL-2, are the perfect combination to face the cold months. Many of our clients, such as sports clubs, communities of owners, municipal swimming pools, etc. . . are already using the wintering nets and Piscinil-2 and are delighted with the results.
